

MULTI-DISCIPLINARY

ProQuest Central Student

Build students' research and learning skills now and for their future

ProQuest Central™ Student is designed to guide students to the most authoritative content across disciplines and formats so they become more proficient, successful researchers – prepared for higher education, careers and adult life.

Combining thousands of journals, magazines, newspapers and reports, this multidisciplinary resource integrates twelve complete ProQuest databases in science, technology, education, social sciences, humanities, and news, and provides access to Research Library, a source for core academic content across multiple disciplines. ProQuest Central Student gives students experience with accessible college-level content in a variety of formats. And because ProQuest Central Student provides the same user experience as the ProQuest academic platform, your students will have a seamless transition to college level research resources.

The content is delivered via the award-winning ProQuest search interface. With ProQuest Central Students, teachers and librarians will find:

- More full text – The largest collection of full-text periodicals selected specifically to support secondary and high school programs. More than 75% of all titles are full text; and one-click linking automatically connects citations to full text wherever it resides electronically in your library.
- More current coverage – More than 85% of publications' latest articles are accessible immediately and content loads daily.

- More subjects – Cover every class in your program with this single, comprehensive resource. More than 160 subjects are represented, across more than 14,000 full-text titles, with over 8,500 of these academic journals.
- More types of content – ProQuest Central Student includes content of many formats, including video – becoming ever more popular with students and teachers. Videos span subjects such as business, entrepreneurship, science, psychology, social sciences, health and more. Full episodes of the award-winning 60 Minutes documentary series from 1997-2014 provide students with rich context for contemporary issues. Plus, transcripts of top radio and television programs. Blogs, news wires, and government reports, such as White House Daily Press Briefings, are fodder for student engagement and great papers!
